Speaker: Jackson, Alvin B. - Al Jackson has held several titles throughout his career such as President, CEO, Vice President, and Director. Mr. Jackson began his career in Washington, DC in government relations, as he lobbied on behalf of the defense and aerospace industry before both the Legislative and Executive branches of the federal government. After 16 years of his career in Washington, DC, he, and his family moved to Utah where he served in the Utah State Senate.

Mr. Jackson currently serves as President of Dowdle Studios and Land that I Love, a non-profit, subsidiary of Dowdle Studios, which is committed to creating awareness, excitement, and understanding about America's true history. The centerpiece of this endeavor is the creation of a family educational platform, "The Bible of American History," which will be a commemoration of the nation's 250th birthday with emphasis on God's hands in the building of this nation.

Mr. Jackson has a BS degree in Aviation Business Administration from Embry-Riddle University and an MBA from Johns Hopkins University. He serves on Brigham Young University's Marriot Business School National Advisory Committee and on the Board of the Woodson Center, which empowers community-based leaders to promote solutions that reduce crime, violence, restore families, revitalize underserved communities, and assist in the creation of economic enterprise. He also serves on the leadership team of the Thomas Jefferson Center for Constitutional Studies, which is dedicated to the restoration of the US Constitution in the tradition of the Founding Fathers.

The Jackson family splits lives in the Washington, DC area with one of their five children, Marie. Kayla, married and a candidate for an MBA; Mary Alice, a senior at the University of Utah; Alvin, III, currently serving a full-time church mission in Las Vegas, NV, and Franklin, who lives in Michigan and plays for the NBA, Detroit Pistons.
